

ABSTRACT

Development of the Word Wide Web (WWW) or simply the web, as if it has eliminated the limitations of time and place in communication between various communities in all corners of the world. the emergence of social networking web requires every community to have an account on the social networking website, especially among teenagers. Based on the psychological emotion of anger tends to occur in the teens (more sensitive) compared with adults, is due to factors that occur around the child and also because they are still quite unstable. In fact it's usually an angry person most of it out by shouting, beating people, cursing people, crying, shut myself up, write, sometimes - sometimes fall into things that are not desirable. These problems it was designed within a social network with the title of angry people. Social networking is designed according to the needs of angry people in the form of social and communication trends. With the microblog can assist communities in reducing the emotion of anger by communicating with friends or family members.

Keyword: Social Design Network Angry People