

ABSTRACT

Website is a whole web pages contained in a domain that contains the information. A website is usually built on many web pages that are interconnected. Currently the website is the internet service applications most used (popular). So popular that many people mistakenly identify with the internet website

Customers will be able to access needed information anytime and anywhere. Not only that, the existence of a web site will be able to expand the reach of marketing a product.

Keyword : Website

