ABSTRACT

This research aimed to examine the correlation between Locus of Control (LOC) with Self-Regulated Learning (SRL) towards 2nd regular class students faculty of Psychology Mercu Buana University. The samples of this research are 125 students. It was taken by Randomize Simple Sampling technique. The instruments of this research are SRL scale that has been adapted from MSLQ (Motivated Strategies for Learning Questionare) and LOC scale from Rotter's Locus of control scale. Both of them have been tested for the validity and reliability. Pearson product moment correlation was applied to obtain the data analysis, and the result shows that there is a correlation between LOC and SRL towards 2nd regular class students faculty of Psychology Mercu Buana University (r=-0,217; $p<0,05$).
