ABSTRACT

Auditors felt difficulties and faced big challenges during the Pandemic. These difficulties include limitations in accessing information and documents needed to carry out audits. This includes financial records, contracts, and other supporting documents that may only be physically available at the company's offices. This difficulty can affect delays in reporting audit results. This research aims to determine the influence of political connections on Audit Report Lag and how it is moderated by related party transactions.

This research method is a type of descriptive quantitative research. The independent variable is political connection, the dependent variable is Audit Report Lag and Related Party Transaction as a moderating variable. The samples in this research were 16 mining companies listed on the Indonesia Stock Exchange for the period 2017 to 2022 which were in accordance with the regulations. Data collection techniques through documentation of company financial reports obtained through the official website of the Indonesia Stock Exchange (www.IDX.com). Data were analyzed using panel regression analysis using Eviews 12.

The research results show that Political Connections has an influence on Audit Report Lag both before and after the COVID-19 pandemic. Related Party Transaction moderates Political Connection on Audit Report Lag both before and after the COVID-19 pandemic. There is no difference in the results of Related Party Transaction moderating Political Connection on Audit Report Lag before and after the COVID-19 pandemic, meaning that both before and after the pandemic both show a significant influence
